Chapter 34

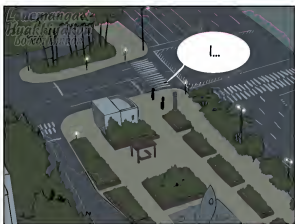

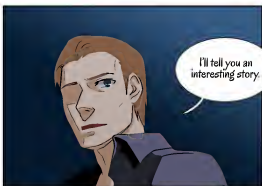

tururu

tururu

I came from a poor household.
my father was a construction worker and my mother had a rare disease.

My mother's health deteriorated over time.
However, without medical insurance, we couldn't slow down the process due to costly fees.

Thus, I knew of the irrationality in this world and I wanted to win against it.

I became a hero and got tested for hero candidacy, only to find out I was only C-class. I was far too weak to become an official hero, so I was put into a team of minor ability-users like me.

Then, in Korea...

PING!

It was an incredible experience. My rank should've been C, but after that day, it suddenly shot up to A.

EDN: No pun intended.

After I became an official hero,

I headed back home.

But I realized that no matter what honor, achievements and strength I had,
there are things I cannot bring back.

I realized that far too late.

I swore before my mother to never let anything like this happen again.

When I started to feel that my job was worthwhile

Rebound struck me. I was uninformed about this when I was C-class.

And then they told me the truth...

about this world.

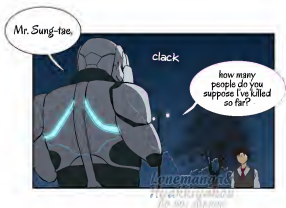

Heroes aren't created to save others.

They're created to kill.

It's quite sad
and ironic.

But...

Don't worry about the future.

In exchange for the life of an S rank, I won't ever have to worry about Rebound again.

I won't need
to kill anyone ever again.
